Sky Photo Book

Every time we photograph the sky it's an unique picture. The sky is never the same twice.

Probably, most people see the sky but they don't really look at it. When we photograph the sky every picture is unique like an original painting because the sky is never the same twice.

The sky makes for a great painting and photography subject.

Today, (Oct 22, '09) there was an amazing sky over Kobe Port, Japan. Fortunately, I live next to a mountain so it's very easy to run out of my art studio and get to an observation point to enjoy the final hour of daylight. Today there was also an amazing sunset.

I never tire of photographing or painting the sky.

The sky gives us much people need to respect and protect it.

Without clouds, we would have no water to drink!
